Driver of Gas Truck Is Burned to Death

Little Rock, Sept. 25 (AP)—The driver of a gasoline-filled Magnolia Petroleum Company tank truck left the road on a curve and burned to death today when the vehicle 18 miles southwest of here, State Police and company officials reported.
W. S. Kotch, district manager the body could not immediately be identified but it was assumed to be that of Elmer Lee Parker, 26, of Hampton, Calhoun county, who was driving when the truck left El Dorado at 1:30 a. m.
Kotch quoted a resident of the area as saying he rushed to the scene after hearing a "crash and loud roar" but the cab and tank were enveloped in flames. He said the driver apparently was killed by the crash.
At a curve, the truck continued straight ahead, crossed a ditch and crashed into a tree, Kotch said.
"I don't know what caused it unless the driver went to sleep," Parker, who has a wife and a child, had been driving for Magnolia about three months, Kotch said.
The $6,500 truck and its $500 load of 3,000 gallons of gasoline were totally destroyed, Kotch reported.

Bright Lights Gone From the Premieres

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood. The bright lights are gone from the movie premieres and the gala problem of dress and cost-for-the-sterile-remains.
The lights are bright inside the theaters. The aisles are long. The audience includes fans, producers, directors, agents, the press. The stars, amble in, take their position, and any attention they attract is gravy for the ego. For the starlets, the gala premiere is an investment. Here's how:

We'll suppose an upcoming young contract player, male, owns a dress to $100 a week for his acting services, e dates — or is publicly-dated — an upcoming young contract player, female, for the occasion. He is soaked in bucks to start tickets at $100 a seat. The starlet, the lady of his attentions, a corsage, and he naturally can't let Hedy Lamarr's or Marlene Dietrich's flowers be more resplendent. He's in to the florist at least $10. He can't ask her to ride up to the foyer for entrance, it's at least 50 per cent of the value in his own roster and there's nothing exciting, sensational, or impressive about walking from a parking lot. There must be a limosine and a driver, to pull up right at the foyer, and pull away. That's another $500. Backs. After that, there's the Cocoanut Grove, or the equivalent, which is another $25 to $35. Total, with incidentals, pretty near a week's salary.
The starlet, female, has her own problems. Always granted she doesn't have to buy the tickets (only at $5.50 each) and her own corsage, she can count on plunking out $3.50 to $5 to have her hair done. Next comes her dress — $75 up. (She could wear an old one, of course, but she knows better. Fans have taught her that. "Oh, my goodness," she heard them saying, "it's the same dress she had on last week!" She won't risk it.)

They put it out smilingly, sometimes eagerly. But they expect their money's worth. They expect to step out into the foyer and to hear a fan-chorus of "Oh!" and
"Ah!" and "ISN'T SHE DAR-LING!" and "GOSH! I could GO for HIM!" They're in business, you see, and they like a return on their investment. They want to be sure that the fans, producers, directors, agents, and reporters are aware of them.
I didn't know how much until I heard about the poor little gal who went to a premiere one night last month. Her name came around, tearfully, to the studio v.p. in charge of premiere seating.
"I had wonderful seats," she charged, "and you changed them on me!"
"Why, yes," said the v.p. Yours were way down front, and at the last minute, a couple were returned—a couple toward the middle where you could really see the picture.

DOUBLE SPEED

We knew that living conditions in Washington were bad, but we didn't know they were this bad!

Last week a man was walking along the banks of the Potomac when he saw a body floating on top. He thought it was a dead body and searched through the pockets and found out the hotel where the man had been staying. He dashed over to the hotel and informed the clerk he wanted room 100 (the dead man's room). The clerk told him that room had already been rented.

"Why that can't be possible, I just pulled the man out of the river. I'm the only one who knew he was dead. Who else could have rented it?"

"The guy who pushed him in," replied the clerk.

Seversky has received a cockpit gun mount in which the gunner moves with his weapon and hence isn't thrown off aim.

Lon Warneke to Pitch Against Cardinals Today

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

St. Louis, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The first National League pennant in eight years may be fluttering over Sportsman's Park, home of the St. Louis Cardinals, before dusk tonight.

The amazing Cardinals, behind the pitching of either Ernie White or Max Lanier, both left handers, play the Chicago Cubs today in the first of a two-game series that comes to a jittery end tomorrow. If the Cards win just one game—or Brooklyn loses either of its remaining two games—the championship goes to St. Louis for the sixth time since 1926. The Cards now lead by two games.

Lon Warneke, the old Arkansas hummin' bird, figures to draw the pitching assignment for the Cubs. Warneke, sold by the Cards last July, lost a heartbreaking 1 to 0 game to the Cards in Chicago last Sunday.

Warneke, bearing no malice against his former club for selling him, and cutting him out of a possible $6,000 World Series share, nevertheless will bear down to the limits of his physical capabilities to win.

"It's either me or them. I've got to keep the wolf away from my door, too. I started Brooklyn on the talspin. I'll go after the Cards, too."

Refreshed by a day's rest, and with three ailing players, suffering from colds, immensely improved, the Cards are ready, eager, and determined for the finale that comes tomorrow.

The snuffing players—outfielder Enos Slaughter, First Baseman Johnny Hopp, Pitcher Cooper—all displayed signs of improvement. Terry Moore, laid up for ten days with a pulled muscle in the calf of his left leg, may return to centerfield.

The Cards already have decided on the split of the World Series pot, but the division will not be revealed until it has the approval of Kenosaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, to whom it must be submitted. Landis probably will arrive here no later than Tuesday to conclude the World's Series arrangements.

The Cards made their decision in a secret vote meeting held at the ball park club house yesterday.

The Irish of South Bend collide with the Badgers at Madison and 5,000 spectators are expected to find the necessary gas, tires and cash to reach the stadium and see what the men of Frank Leahy can do with the "Y" formation.

Dr. George Hauser has taken over the destinies of the Golden Gophers now that Bernie Bierman, who coached Minnesota to a mythical national crown last season, is in the hospital.

Marines and tutoring the Iowa Seawawks, Minnesota faces Pittsburgh.

There'll be coaching debuts all something over.

"Do you mean," she said, "do you mean—you've never told her about me, either?"

He laughed bitterly. "The first minute she was nice to me I suppose I should have warned her. 'Don't you go falling in love with me; I'm taken.' That would have made me down as a nice chump, wouldn't it?"

Candace flushed resentfully. "All these months since, though," she suggested; but he didn't answer that. She persisted, "You'll tell her now, won't you? You'll go to her, tomorrow, and tell her about me. About—us?"

Martin swore. "No," he said explosively. "Going to her, dramatically, like that—Suppose she told her father? It might even cost me my appointment."

"Why? Why? Unless—" She struggled with stiff dry lips against words that hated to come, "unless she's in love with you."

He didn't deny that she was in love with him. "She's a kid," he said. "She thinks a penniless internee is 'romantic.' In six months she'll be over it."

She asked slowly, "And if she isn't, Martin? If she isn't? Suppose I help you to lie and cheat a little longer and she still doesn't get over it, what then?"

He didn't answer and she thought, I'm in competition with his ambitions. He feels I'm in the way. . . . Her chin went up. "Suppose on the other hand," she said, "that I refused to be a party to deceiving someone else as I've been deceived. Suppose—that I made it no longer necessary for you to lie and cheat. That I—released you."

He had flushed a deep, angry red. "I'd have my brain examined if I wasn't glad. If I didn't feel I was lucky to be free of a jealous, nagging woman—" His foot struck savagely at a log and sent it crashing into the fire.

Candace felt as though she herself had been kicked. A dizzying wave of nausea swept over her. When it had passed, she rose slowly, "How nice for you, then," she said, nodding him. "How nice! Because you're free of me. And so your career as a fashionable physician, providing this girl doesn't get over it, starts much sooner, doesn't it? And it starts right at the top."

She would not allow him to accompany her, she shrank even from letting him help her on with her wrap.

And then she was alone in the hallway outside and Peter's white face was swimming up to her through a sick mist.

HE had forgotten that Peter had insisted on it; that was swallowed up in this new and embarrassing development. He pointed out reasonably, "If you were to turn up at the hospital suddenly like that, don't you see how it would look? It would look as though I've been trying to put something over."

"Do you mean," she said, "do you mean—you've never told her about me, either?"

He laughed bitterly. "The first minute she was nice to me I suppose I should have warned her. 'Don't you go falling in love with me; I'm taken.' That would have made me down as a nice chump, wouldn't it?"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Sept. 26.—Secretary of War Stimson probably wouldn't know what to do with a pair of pants, but there's no doubt he deserves the heavyweight thinking championship. . . . of all the people who had anything to do with the Louis-Conn affair, he was the only one in authority to realize that the prestige of the Army was a great deal more important than any amount of dough the fight might bring in for Army relief.

And he didn't hesitate to do the one thing that was best for the prestige of the Army. . . . Now, since Rep. O'Toole has brought up the question of how the money from the Army All-Star football games was distributed, he might ask for a full statement on that—soon.

Today's Guest Star.
Robert L. Burnes, St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "One of the most familiar cries at the ball park is the one the score card vendors use: 'You can't tell the players without a scorecard.' Now, with players constantly borrowing somebody else's shirt, you have a heck of a time telling them even with the card."

One-Minute Sports Page
Pretty swift gesture of the Yanks to vote $600 series cuts to soldiers Johnny Sturm and Steve Peek, who didn't toss a ball for the club this season. . . . But they'll get their reward. The reserved-seat sellout is so complete that the lub's tub-thumper, Jack Slocum, reports he can't get even a pair for the "old man," who used to be one of the best baseball scribes in the business.

Service Dept.
Yeoman Barney Ross, the ex-welterweight champ, has left the San Diego Naval Training station to go on some duty. . . . when Lieut. Norb Akerstrom, Tennessee's 1940 football captain, became a pappy two months ago, he was somewhere in Newfoundland but he brought the traditional cigars just the same. His pals claimed he should have contributed the cigars to the scrap rubber drive.

Joe Valentine, Camden, N. J., fight and wrestling show announcer, is not a bit worried about the rigors of the Army's basic training. He will be undergoing "After being bounced around by angry wrestles for years," says Joe, "I can stand a beating."

Axis Nations Celebrate Anniversary of Berlin Treaty

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World War Analyst, is being written during his absence for a few days by Glenn Babb.)

The Axis is celebrating this week the anniversary of its attempt to frighten the United States into a permanent sideline position in the war to determine the character of tomorrow's world. Two years ago tomorrow at Berlin, the foreign ministers of Germany and Italy, and that famous envoy of Japan, the same Mr. Kurusu who was to be found at Washington 14 months later, signed the treaty of Berlin.

They pledged to one another all possible aid, including that of the air, should any of them be attacked by a power not then engaged in the European or Chinese wars. They specifically excepted Soviet Russia from their gesture of friendship.

They far sighted men were concerned by the involvement of the United States in a far greater and more deadly war than that of a generation ago was inevitable. So they had been proved. Against the all-embracing, ruthless ambitions of the three robber powers the struggle will to peace was unavailing.

This anniversary is the first since the war became a truly global struggle through Japan's attack on the United States. Therefore the Axis capitals are at special pains to mark the occasion with renewed protestations of their fidelity to one another, their generous purposes in marking their confidence of victory. For three days now, these radio stations have blared out thousands of words on these themes and the storm on the air waves is likely to continue into next week.

It is a comparison of the world maps of September, 1941, and September, 1942, certainly will not disclose why this should be. Recalled the thousands of square miles conquered in the Pacific, and in the boot taken, the last 12 months have brought the Axis, at least its two major partners, success without parallel in the history of international brigandage. Hitler's armored columns have reached the Volga and stand a 15 mile bomber flight from the Nile. Hirohito's legions dominate the Asiatic community of half a billion souls.

But the little men who, at Berlin, two years ago, made certain America could fight, must ally in spite of the maps, like Aladdin who rubbed the wrong lamp, and lost the wrong Genie. The power of the greatest of these—the industrial might of the United States—is not yet felt in great measure directly on the battlefields. The shadow looms ominously over all the Axis councils.

Weak Hitting Sports Take Nashville 9-3

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 26—(P)—Maybe it was the livelier horsehide used in the Southern Association or maybe Nashville was feeling the strain of taking four straight from Little Rock in the Shaughnessy playoff, but the "weak hitting" Shreveport Sports found the offerings of four Vol hurlers to their liking last night and they pounded out a 9-3 decision in the first game of the Dixie series.

The win put the Texas league champions ahead by one game and the two teams will play here again Sunday afternoon.

Manager Larry Gilbert will send George Jeffcoat to the mound tomorrow, still wondering why a team that hit but .240 in regular season should have combined four of his best hurlers for 13 safeties, including a home run and four doubles.

Either Brillhart of Maltzberger is expected to get the nod from manager Larry Gilbert, or George Washington's homer in the first inning that gave the Vols at taste.

Gilbert called on young Dutch McCall in the fourth, but he gave up two runs while retiring one a man and Charley Assaway took over with little better success. Bob Bowman finished the game for the Vols, slightly taming the Sports' slugging.

Meanwhile Doyle Lade, a 19-game winner in regular play, was holding Nashville to five hits, and the team which boasted a .291 batting average went the last four innings without a safety.

Third, fourth and fifth games of the series will be played in Shreveport on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. If additional games are needed, the clubs will return to Sulphur Dell for the final engagements.

TCU Scores 7-6 Victory Over UCLA

Los Angeles, Sept. 26—(P)—Elmer Nix, his good right foot and his good right arm are heroes today among fans of the Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

His pigging fling climaxed a closing minutes drive last night as the Texans noted out the University of California at Los Angeles 7 to 6. Nix kept on the bench most of the game, went into the game in the fourth period with seven minutes to go and UCLA leading 6-0, he darted 43 yards to the UCLA 35. A few seconds later he passed from the 25 to Bob McCullum, sub on back on the eight.

Then with fourth down and three to go Nix fired a bullet touchdown pass to Don Ezell, a sub halfback. Then he kicked the placement.

UCLA scored in the third period when it intercepted a pass on the TCU 21 and passed twice for the score. TCU gained 204 yards to UCLA's 52.

War Bond Drive to Close Wednesday Night
Prescott's Salute to Our Heroes Month, national War Bond drive, sponsored by the motion picture industry, will close Wednesday night, with a special Victory Show at 9:15 p. m., at the Nevada Theatre.

Admission will be purchase of a minimum of one dollar's worth of War stamps, or of a bond of any denomination, so long as either is bought and credited to the motion picture canvass.

Highlight of the program will be the announcement of the winner of a $500 bond purchased by contributions from leading business houses and to be presented to the winner of the Stamp and Bond sales contest, held during the month of September in connection with the Salute to Our Heroes drive.

Standings, posted in the box office at the Nevada theatre weekly, during the drive, were made public, for the last time, last Wednesday, when Gertrude Clark White, representing Ozan Mercantile led the field with a total of 42,130 points and stamps sold. In second place was Ann McSwain, with 38,556 points for $8,508 worth of bonds and stamps sold.

Main attraction of the movie program, Wednesday, at the Victory Show, will be "The World at War." Two short subjects, "America Sings with Kate Smith," and a color cartoon, will complete the program. Tickets, for the show, will be placed on sale at the Nevada box office Monday, and may be purchased there from the contestists from Monday through Wednesday at show time. Stamps, minimum of one dollar's worth, or bonds bought at any time during these three days will entitle purchasers to check. Each of the stamps and bonds sales contestants was sponsored by a business firm which contributed to the fund, with which the $500 bond, awarded to the highest sales, was purchased. The contestists will not know the winner, until her name is announced from the stage, Wednesday night.

The total pledge, Friday at noon was $43,000.

Lester Robbins in Pacific Engagement

In a letter from Seattle, Wash., to his cousin, Miss Helen Garrett, Hope Route Two, Lester Robbins, Jr., Hope boy who is a radio operator on a Navy ship, gave the following description:

"I've had quite a bit of excitement lately to break the monotony. We've been chased by Jap planes and have run from submarines. A bomb exploded under our ship last week, and all I got was a sprained ankle."

PROMPT DELIVERY ENTHUSIAST

An elderly man put a dime on the Salvation Army drum, then asked the girl in charge: "What do you do with this money?"

"Give it to the Lord."

"How old are you, young lady?"

"Nineteen."

"Then you don't need to bother," said the man as he recovered his dime from the drum. "I'm eighty-seven, so I'll probably see the Lord before you do."

its weight in Japs, twice its weight in Germans. The big Boeings fight the war in the South Pacific almost single handed and do an amazing job against the Germans with many of the Nazis' latest fighters shot down by the B-29's.

Karant also points out that "the Allison engine is largely responsible for the fine job being done by the P-40's, the Bell Airacobras and Lockheed P-38's in Australia, Libya, Alaska, Greenland and Iceland everywhere, and in the most widely varied climatic conditions."

"If our air forces are getting their present results by riding on boom handles, then for the sake of all civilization let's go into all-out production on boom handles."

"If our equipment is as awful as some people say, then we'll surely be able to whip the whole world with one - third of our present air force once we get some 'good' aircraft."

The editor suggests that the qualifications of persons making statements branding the nation's aircraft "as so much junk," should be considered "long and carefully before you believe a word of it."

"It's asking a lot, but it's the only way the American people will eventually learn the truth."

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World War Analyst, is being written during his absence for a few days by Glenn Babb.)

The Axis is celebrating this week the anniversary of its attempt to frighten the United States into a permanent sideline position in the war to determine the character of tomorrow's world. Two years ago tomorrow at Berlin, the foreign ministers of Germany and Italy, and that famous envoy of Japan, the same Mr. Kurusu who was to be found at Washington 14 months later, signed the treaty of Berlin.

They pledged to one another all possible aid, including that of the air, should any of them be attacked by a power not then engaged in the European or Chinese wars. They specifically excepted Soviet Russia from their gesture of friendship.

They far sighted men were concerned by the involvement of the United States in a far greater and more deadly war than that of a generation ago was inevitable. So they had been proved. Against the all-embracing, ruthless ambitions of the three robber powers the struggle will to peace was unavailing.

This anniversary is the first since the war became a truly global struggle through Japan's attack on the United States. Therefore the Axis capitals are at special pains to mark the occasion with renewed protestations of their fidelity to one another, their generous purposes in marking their confidence of victory. For three days now, these radio stations have blared out thousands of words on these themes and the storm on the air waves is likely to continue into next week.

It is a comparison of the world maps of September, 1941, and September, 1942, certainly will not disclose why this should be. Recalled the thousands of square miles conquered in the Pacific, and in the boot taken, the last 12 months have brought the Axis, at least its two major partners, success without parallel in the history of international brigandage. Hitler's armored columns have reached the Volga and stand a 15 mile bomber flight from the Nile. Hirohito's legions dominate the Asiatic community of half a billion souls.

But the little men who, at Berlin, two years ago, made certain America could fight, must ally in spite of the maps, like Aladdin who rubbed the wrong lamp, and lost the wrong Genie. The power of the greatest of these—the industrial might of the United States—is not yet felt in great measure directly on the battlefields. The shadow looms ominously over all the Axis councils.
